1	PROCEEDINGS
2	THE COURT: Ms. White, could you please call the
3	case.
4	THE CLERK: Yes, Your Honor. This is civil action
5	23-764. Joint Stock Company State Savings Bank of Ukraine
6	versus Russian Federation.
7	Will the parties please come forward and identify
8	themselves for the record, starting with plaintiff's
9	counsel.
10	MR. HRANITZKY: Good morning Your Honor, I'm Dennis
11	Hranitzky from Quinn Emanuel on behalf of the petitioner,
12	which we refer to as Oschadbank.
13	THE COURT: What bank? Excuse me.
14	MR. HRANITZKY: Excuse me?
15	THE COURT: What bank?
16	MR. HRANITZKY: Oschadbank.
17	THE COURT: Oschad.
18	MR. HRANITZKY: Oschadbank. And I'm joined by my
19	colleagues Deborah O'Gorman and Yvonne Zhang.
20	THE COURT: All right. Welcome, everyone.
21	MR. MARKS: Good morning, Your Honor. I'm Bruce
22	Marks. I represent the Russian Federation. And I have with
23	me Thomas Sullivan.
24	THE COURT: Remind me what firm you're with?
25	MR. MARKS: I'm with Marks and Sokolov,

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

S-o-k-o-l-o-v. 1 THE COURT: Okav. And so, Mr. Hranitzky, could I 2 talk to you for a minute? So I'm very familiar with the Spain 3 cases, having represented Spain in them when I was in private 4 litigation. 5 MR. HRANITZKY: Indeed, Your Honor. 6 THE COURT: I got kicked off of it. But I'm not 7 quite sure how that's relevant to your case. So I don't 8 understand the stay. Is it because of an implied arbitration 9 exception or what -- how is Spain relevant? 10 11 MR. HRANITZKY: Well, Your Honor, we're not -- we didn't make the initial request for a stay. The initial 12 request for the stay came from the --13 THE COURT: No, I know. I have questions for them 14 on that too. 15 16 MR. HRANITZKY: Sure. I mean, it's our position that this case could proceed without a stay in the interest of 17 compromise --18 THE COURT: Oh --19 MR. HRANITZKY: -- we were willing to agree to a 20 21 very short stay. THE COURT: I don't think Spain is going to be 2.2 short, I'm telling you right now. It was a six-hour hearing 23 and I think it's going to be a while before we get anything. 2.4 25 So you don't really want a stay.

Case 1:23-cv-00764-ACR Document 36-5 Filed 05/29/24 Page 4 of 70

MR. HRANITZKY: Your Honor, we would be -- we would 1 prefer to proceed. We proposed that in the interest of 2 compromise. 3 THE COURT: Okay. That's helpful because I was 4 confused by your letter yesterday. Okay. So now I want to 5 talk to you. 6 MR. MARKS: Here I am. 7 THE COURT: All right. What is the -- what was the 8 seat of the arbitration? 9 MR. MARKS: Paris. 10 THE COURT: All right. And you have a enforcement 11 action in Paris, but as I understand it I'm not bound by that 12 decision; right? 13 MR. MARKS: It would be rare in your -- you're not 14 bound by the decision, Your Honor. 15 16 THE COURT: Rare, but not unprecedented, because I'm aware of cases in which a U.S. court has -- I can't remember 17 if it was upheld or denied, what Paris did and Paris had done 18 the opposite. So just why am I worried about what France is 19 doing. 20 MR. MARKS: Generally -- if I could respond to Your 21 Honor's question -- generally, if the Courts at the seat of 2.2 the arbitration annul the decision, almost all of the cases 23 that I've seen here in the United States then do not enforce 2.4 the award. 25

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

1	THE COURT: Right. But I'm not bound by that. I
2	have to do my own independent determination; right? And I
3	don't give it any deference. I mean, I have to do my own de
4	novo review.
5	MR. MARKS: Of what issue, Your Honor?
6	THE COURT: Of whether or not to annul the award.
7	MR. MARKS: You're not being no. I don't mean to
8	disagree. Your Honor, doesn't have the auth in my
9	opinion, Your Honor would not have the authority to annul the
10	award because Your Honor's not in the rendering jurisdiction.
11	The authority that Your Honor
12	THE COURT: Right. I'm sorry, you're right. I
13	can't enforce the award for U.S. purposes.
14	MR. MARKS: For U.S. purposes.
15	THE COURT: Right.
16	MR. MARKS: You do have in our opinion, Your
17	Honor, the Court has an independent duty to determine whether
18	it has jurisdiction under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities
19	Act.
20	THE COURT: Yes.
21	MR. MARKS: That is an independent issue that this
22	Court decides for itself.
23	THE COURT: Of course.
24	MR. MARKS: If Your Honor were to go to the next
25	stage, which would be under the New York Convention, then there's a protocol where Your Honor would be able to decide whether to recognize and then ultimately enforce the award.

THE COURT: Right, but my question is you want me to stay pending whatever France does. And I'm saying France is great, I love visiting Paris, I mean, but I don't -- whatever they do is not going to prevent me from doing whatever I think I need to do. If France comes back and says you need to annul the award for French purposes, I will -- I would obviously look at that. And I might think, gosh, those guys are really smart and I agree with them. But I wouldn't have to -- it's not like abuse of discretion standard, right, I'm just starting all over with them here.

MR. MARKS: If the award is annulled, Your Honor, the overwhelming precedent --

THE COURT: I know you're talking to me about overwhelming precedent. I'm talking to you about what the actual rules are. I know what the overwhelming precedent is. I also know that there's cases going the other way because I teach a class on international arbitration at Yale Law School and I've taught them.

THE COURT: So you want a stay and my point is I don't want to hold this up until whatever happens in France happens, because then we're just basically wasting years.

MR. MARKS: Well, Your Honor, I wouldn't --

3	No, you're going to come here and argue it.
4	MR. MARKS: That would be true, Your Honor.
5	THE COURT: Okay.
6	MR. MARKS: But if I might, Your Honor. The Courts

Bates, there's at least five or six other. The Courts in this district have almost unanimously stayed proceedings involving the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act when obviously the sovereign is a respondent, if there are set aside proceedings still pending in the jurisdiction where the award was rendered. There are --

THE COURT: When is France expected to rule? Where are you in the proceedings?

MR. MARKS: Your Honor, we are before the Paris Court of Appeals now the proceeding had been filed in 2019. The parties -- if I could explain it, the Paris Court of Appeals ruled on only one issue. It set the award aside. That happened in 2021.

THE COURT: What was the basis for setting it aside?

MR. MARKS: The Court held that there was no jurisdiction under Article 12 of the Bilateral Investment Treaty, because the investments that were made by Oschadbank were made before the jurisdictional date in the treaty, January 1st, 1992. There was back and forth between Russia and Ukraine at the time. And the treaty was designed to exclude any investments that were made during the Soviet period. And for that purpose January 1st, 1992 was deemed to be the effective dissolution date of the Soviet Union.

The Court of Appeals -- and there was another case just like this in The Netherlands where they ruled the same way. They said -- don't forget the Russian Federation didn't participate in the arbitration, so this is what the tribunal itself ruled -- the Court of Appeals set that aside because it said that the award was based on claims that were outside the jurisdiction of the Bilateral Investment Treaty. About a year later the Court of Cassation, which is effectively the higher court or highest, perhaps, court in France set that aside. They held that Article 12 was not jurisdictional and that was remanded to the Paris Court of Appeals.

There were four or five --

THE COURT: Are they going to have to defer to the arbitration, to the tribunal because it's a merits issue.

MR. MARKS: Well, Your Honor, it's a great question. I can answer it in two ways. There were four other issues, or maybe five I think, that the Russian Federation raised. These are similar issues that we did in our short lived motion to dismiss, which the Paris Court of Appeals didn't rule on. Okay. Because it said, well, you're out for the one so we're not going to address the other four or five. Those issues are still pending before the Paris Court of Appeals, and they've effectively already been briefed. They would have been briefed in the first round.

THE COURT: When did it all get back to the Court of Appeals?

MR. MARKS: It got back to the Court of Appeals in

And I'll explain, if I might, Your Honor, I'm going to 2022. give you the procedural history, to conclude --THE COURT: Is this the procedural history? What is this? MR. MARKS: Well, that's from them. I didn't know Your Honor wanted hand-ups. So I have a -- I can give you a piece of paper, if you want, that has the dates on it. THE COURT: Whatever you want to give me, I'll look at. MR. MARKS: This is my cheat sheet, Your Honor. The set aside petition was filed by the Russian Federation in 2019, it was granted only on the one issue in 2021, that went to the Cassation Court. That was -- only on that one issue, because it was the only issue the Court of Appeals addressed. It was reversed in 2022. That then has been the term in French is seized, the Court of Appeals has now been seized to go back and to address the other five issues. That happened in March of 2024.

THE COURT: But it took five years from the notice of the set aside to get back -- we're not waiting on this case for five years. I'm telling you that right now. We're not waiting on this case, you know, I'm -- first of all, I'm going to let you file whatever you want to file.

MR. MARKS: Fine.

THE COURT: But I'm telling you right now I'm not

1	staying this until some time immemorial.
2	MR. MARKS: Well, Your Honor, I don't think it would
3	be time immemorial, but if I could complete the process.
4	THE COURT: Yeah, sure. Of course.
5	MR. MARKS: There was no reason to re to begin
6	again the Court of Appeals, because the Russian Federation had
7	already had also filed what's called a revision application
8	before the tribunal. They promptly did that in 2019 as
9	well.
10	THE COURT: Is that basically a motion for
11	reconsideration?
12	MR. MARKS: Excuse me?
13	THE COURT: Is that basically a motion for
14	reconsideration with the tribunal.
15	MR. MARKS: I don't want to speak over Your Honor.
16	THE COURT: No, go ahead.
17	MR. MARKS: The Russian Federation had never
18	participated in the arbitration.
19	THE COURT: Well, hold on. Hold on.
20	MR. MARKS: But
21	THE COURT: You did participate. You just didn't
22	participate fully.
23	MR. MARKS: We didn't participate.
24	THE COURT: You issue you sent in a letter with a
25	jurisdictional objection.

1	MR. MARKS: We sent a letter that we were not going
2	to participate and explained why.
3	THE COURT: Well that's participating. It's not
4	like it went on without your knowledge and you're like, oh, my
5	gosh, what has just happened?
6	MR. MARKS: I didn't say that, Your Honor.
7	THE COURT: No, I understand. But let's just make
8	sure we're talking clearly. You chose not to participate.
9	MR. MARKS: I don't dispute that at all, Your Honor.
10	The Russian Federation chose not to participate. And that's
11	how I would I would adopt Your Honor's language. So after
12	that in 2019 timely, the Russian Federation filed what's
13	called a I don't speak French, I speak Russian and that
14	won't help me here.
15	THE COURT: I speak Kentucky, so
16	MR. MARKS: Well, I'm from West Virginia.
17	THE COURT: So we're both not going to do well.
18	MR. MARKS: called a revision application. And
19	the allegation there was that the Oschadbank had committed
20	fraud by concealing that investments were made before the
21	beginning date of the BIT.
22	THE COURT: But he says that, in fact, what you
23	claim had not been disclosed to the tribunal had been
24	disclosed to the tribunal.
25	MR. MARKS: Well, they our position was that it was not.

THE COURT: I mean, it seems like this is a yes or no, like either it was or it wasn't. What's the dispute? It was buried or I mean --

MR. MARKS: They -- yeah, it was. And the tribunal never found that it was disclosed. The -- it took the tribunal several years to resolve it. There was no sense to go back to the Court of Appeals where there was still the revision application before the tribunal. And the tribunal denied that, I believe, in December of 2013.

THE COURT: 23.

MR. MARKS: So both set aside actions were then renewed timely in March of 2024. Both of them are before the Paris Court of Appeals. And there's no reason why the Paris Court of Appeals could not rule within a year or a year and a half. That may not be fast enough for Your Honor, I don't know.

THE COURT: I mean, maybe they will rule within a year, a year and a half, it doesn't seem like --

MR. MARKS: Well, let's -- just a second, if we could remember, Your Honor, again, I don't want to interrupt, but one of the reasons why it took the tribunal, which of course is three people, so they -- to get together it's a little more complicated, because different delays in 2020 and 2021 because of COVID, so that explains, that explains why some of these things took longer then than they would take today. Today, of course, we don't have the same COVID issues. Plus everybody, sadly enough, as you learn how to use Zoom and Teams.

So what I was going to get to, we'll file a motion, Your Honor is giving us an idea what you are thinking, however, this is exactly what happened and has happened in many, many cases in this District, that the Courts have recognized that they should not be deciding recognition petitions until arbitrations have run their course. This is a Bilateral Investment Treaty arbitration. Everybody who practices in this area of the law, and apparently Your Honor did as well, understands that it's just not a decision of an arbitration tribunal.

Everybody understands that once there's a decision, one side or the other are going to file set-aside proceedings. And depending on the jurisdiction, sometimes those proceedings are longer or shorter. In France, the proceedings are shorter than in other jurisdictions. In some jurisdictions, at least it used to be The Netherlands, you filed before a district court, it went to a Court of Appeals, and then ultimately you might go to the Dutch Supreme Court. In England you start with the English High Court, or whatever you would call it there. It then goes to the English Court of -- to the whatever their appellate court is.

Case 1:23-cv-00764-ACR Document 36-5 Filed 05/29/24 Page 15 of 70

Here in France it's a much more expedited procedure. In France it goes directly to the Court of Appeals. We would expect a ruling within a year or so. And then depending on what happens then it could go to the Cassation Court, we all know looking at the record here in this case that it took the Cassation Court, I don't remember, I can look at my cheat sheet but Your Honor is looking at it too.

THE COURT: A year.

MR. MARKS: I think it took about a year. These type of -- this type of, you know, takes judges time to decide cases, particularly when it's an appellate court, you're not talking about just one judge, but you're talking about three or five depending on the Court.

THE COURT: That's why it's so much better to be a district court judge. You can just do whatever you want.

MR. MARKS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: That's why it's so much better to be a district court judge. You can just do whatever you want. Don't have to wait for other people, don't have to rely on other people.

MR. MARKS: If it only paid better, right, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yeah, talking to someone who just took a massive pay cut, I agree.

MR. MARKS: The issue that I was getting, there's a number of issues that CC/Devas and Cube and the other cases have looked at. There's policy reasons why courts in the District of Columbia, and particularly these are the Courts that are most familiar with the Immunity Act, this is the epicenter of it, as it were. One issue is judicial economy, that this court ought not -- views that it ought not be deciding cases if there might be an exactly opposite result in the other jurisdiction. And in this case the other jurisdiction -- the only jurisdiction that has the power to annul the award is looking at it. This proceeding has already been pending. The Russian Federation, you know, has done what it was supposed to do to get it moving. That's one reason.

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

Second, the complications that are involved if Your Honor recognizes the award and it turns out that in France they annul the award, then we have this whole -- the judges all discussed this in the Spain cases -- then you have this whole mess of what do you do, should you undo, how do you undo.

THE COURT: But I don't have to undo; right? They would be allowed to collect on it in the U.S., but not everywhere else in the world.

MR. MARKS: Well, no, then once it gets undone, then we would certainly -- there's a lot of cases or at least some cases like that, Your Honor, where they come and the say, hey, you shouldn't have recognized it, but you did, but now it's been annulled. We have to undo it. 1 So I do have to do what they do? 2 THE COURT: MR. MARKS: What? 3 THE COURT: So I do have to do what they do? 4 If I enforce it here and then Paris annuls it later, then do I have 5 to undo the enforcement? Am I bound to do that by law? 6 MR. MARKS: You don't necessarily have to. 7 THE COURT: Okay. 8 MR. MARKS: You don't necessarily have to do it. 9 THE COURT: So let me just play this out, though. 10 MR. MARKS: Sure, but I --11 THE COURT: Go ahead. 12 MR. MARKS: So that's one reason. The other reason 13 of course is the purpose of the Immunities Act is obviously to 14 protect sovereigns from unnecessary litigation. Why should 15 16 the Russian Fed -- and again, lucky me, my client's a sovereign it's not an investor, why should a sovereign have to 17 be subjected to litigating the same issues in two different 18 forums. 19 THE COURT: Because you signed a BIT. 20 21 Congratulations. You get lots of litigation. MR. MARKS: Well, that may be true, Your Honor, but 2.2 a lot of courts just because you sign a bit don't recognize 23 that that subjects a sovereign to having to litigate in two 24 different forums. That's why the judges who, three judges 25

Case 1:23-cv-00764-ACR Document 36-5 Filed 05/29/24 Page 17 of 70

Case 1:23-cv-00764-ACR Document 36-5 Filed 05/29/24 Page 18 of 70

that I could cite to more, all of those agreed that we wait. 1 One of the issues, of course, is comity, it's the French 2 courts that have received or seized with having the first shot 3 at it, as it were, to decide whether there actually was 4 jurisdiction over the Russian Federation. And so, therefore, 5 in the interest of comity because this case was brought in --6 was brought in France and well -- don't for- -- it's not like 7 my clients moved to set aside after the award was brought 8 The case in France, Your Honor, was brought four 9 here. years -- four years before the recognition petition was 10 brought here. 11 THE COURT: The issues that are in front of the 12 Paris Court of Appeals now, the other four that they haven't 13 ruled on yet --14 MR. MARKS: If I could just complete one thing, Your 15 16 Honor. THE COURT: Okay. 17 MR. MARKS: Because you're right about the other 18 four. 19 THE COURT: I haven't asked my question yet, but go 20 21 ahead. MR. MARKS: Okay. Under the procedure in France the 22 Russian Federation can again raise the issue, the 23 jurisdictional issue of the January 1st, 1992. The French 24 Court of Appeals is not bound by the Cassation Court ruling, 25

1	and they can
2	THE COURT: I'm sorry, what?
3	MR. MARKS: I know. I know, Your Honor. But
4	there's believe me I was smiling too and trying to figure
5	out and say, hey, is it just France. This is their procedure
6	and there's a rationale to it. The Cassation Court can say
7	no, we don't agree, this was a jurisdictional issue and we're
8	going to issue the same decision. In France, what that then
9	means, instead of just the panel as it were at the Cassation
10	Court, then deciding the issue again, they get a full panoply
11	of judges that participate in larger Cassation Court issues,
12	it's like an en banc court.
13	THE COURT: So it's like the
14	MR. MARKS: En banc.
15	THE COURT: If you got an appeal at the Supreme
16	Court, the Supreme Court said to the D.C. Circuit panel we
17	think you got it wrong so go en banc. Then the en banc court
18	can do what it wants.
19	MR. MARKS: Well, then that is binding on
20	everybody.
21	THE COURT: So it doesn't get appealed again to the
22	Cassation Court?
23	MR. MARKS: It goes to the Cassation Court but then
24	it goes en banc.
25	THE COURT: And then after it goes en banc to the Court of Appeals? 1 No, to the Cassation Court. 2 MR. MARKS: Oh, okay. All right. So is it going en THE COURT: 3 banc to the Cassation Court now? 4 MR. MARKS: No, because their filter, Your Honor, 5 they don't have a procedure, I'm told. I'm not a French 6 lawyer. They don't have a procedure in the Cassation Court 7 where you can ask for reconsideration what they do have as a 8 procedure is you go back to the Court of Appeals. If the 9 Court of Appeals again decides the way that it decided 10 before --11 THE COURT: Then it goes to the Cassation en banc. 12 MR. MARKS: Then it goes en banc. And then instead 13 of having either three or five judges decide it, then it's a 14 much larger panel of judges that do it. I'm only saying that, 15 16 Your Honor, just I would fully explain, and I know Your Honor wanted to ask a question. I'm sorry for doing this 17 piecemeal. 18 THE COURT: Basically my question is -- you answered 19 my question as it turns out, is the jurisdictional issue is 20 still live. 21 MR. MARKS: That one issue is still live plus the 22 other four. 23 THE COURT: Are the other four issues 24 jurisdictional? 25

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

MR. MARKS: Oh, yeah, and we have significant issues 1 there, Your Honor, as to whether the BIT applies the Crimea, 2 because, of course, as we know, Ukraine doesn't recognize that 3 as Russian sovereign territory. Crimea was not part of the 4 Russian Federation when the BIT was signed in 1998. That only 5 changed in 2014. Your Honor, I'm not going to get into the 6 issue as to between Russia and Ukraine on that issue --7 THE COURT: At 2:00 p.m. I have issues between 8 Israel and Palestine. So I've got quite the day. 9 MR. MARKS: Well, that is quite the day. But the 10 11 point being, Your Honor, we have, as you know, from our --I'll call it the initial motion to dismiss, our reading of the 12 Bilateral Investment Treaty is that it doesn't apply to 13 Crimea. We have different reasons for that. One is the 14 Doctrice of Contemporanea, that when it was signed by the two 15 16 parties Crimea was not considered to be Russian territory. And where we are now, of course, Ukraine disputes that it's 17 Russian territory. And we've made a number of arguments. 18 Those type of arguments, Your Honor, are pending before the 19 Court of Appeals. 20 21 THE COURT: So what's your argument in front of the Court of Appeals, not that Crimea isn't Russian, it's that 22 Ukraine doesn't recognize Crimea as Russian? 23 24

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

THE COURT: Russia doesn't think it's disputed 1 territory. Russia thinks it's Russian; right? 2 MR. MARKS: Well, we know it's disputed territory 3 because Ukrane and other countries dispute it. 4 THE COURT: Right. But if President Putin goes on 5 television today to talk about Crimea, he's not going to say 6 Crimea is disputed, he's going to say Crimea is Russian. 7 MR. MARKS: No doubt about it. 8 THE COURT: Okay. All right. 9 MR. MARKS: He may have done it already. 10 THE COURT: I'm sure he has. But go ahead. 11 MR. MARKS: Russia's position is that Crimea is 12 Russia sovereign territory. But our position, and we believe 13 there's support in international law, we submitted an 14 international law legal report --15 16 THE COURT: So you be want to have your cake and eat it to. You want to have your Crimea and eat it too, I 17 18 guess. MR. MARKS: Well, not really. What we think is that 19 when you interpret the BIT, that there has to be an agreement 20 21 on what territory is the territory of the other country. And it cuts the same way, Your Honor, Ukraine would refuse to 2.2 recognize -- if there's a Russia investor in Crimea, an 23 investor were to invest in Ukraine, Russia would not recognize 2.4 25 that as a covered investment --

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

THE COURT: Ukraine would not.

MR. MARKS: Excuse me, Ukraine. I'm sorry about that. Ukraine would not, because they don't consider Crimea to be Russian territory.

THE COURT: Well, that's a fair point.

MR. MARKS: And there's complicated issues here. There are international law issues. And these are issues that are going -- that have been before the Court of Appeals for four years, roughly. At least the proceeding was filed in 2019. I might have it off a little bit because I don't recall exactly when the briefs were filed. But these were all issues that were timely filed by the Russian Federation. These are issues that were fully briefed, you know, when the Court of Appeals initially decided this in 2022. And in the interest of comity, because the proceedings were filed in France first, a number of judges in this jurisdiction -- maybe not Your Honor, I guess we'll see -- but a number of judges have all found the different arguments that I'm making persuasive.

I'd add another argument, if I might, Your Honor, okay, because Your Honor's thinking, well, this -- and obviously Oschadbank is going to say there's delay involved, I hear what Your Honor is looking at. Let's not forget, and it's right in their petition, they filed this outside the three-year period. So it's a little bit like the pot calling the kettle black.

THE COURT: In this case of Goose v. Gander. 1 MR. MARKS: There you go, it's a little bit like 2 There's no dispute that this petition was filed well 3 that. outside the three-year period that's provided under the 4 Federal Arbitration Act. We're not going to argue that. It's 5 a merits issue, it's not a Sovereign Immunities issue. And 6 we've learned our lesson from a number of cases, we don't want 7 to mix chocolate with the peanut butter. The only issues 8 we're going to raise are going to be issues under the 9 Immunities Act. But if we're talking, you know, the bigger 10 issue on delay, they're -- they --11 THE COURT: But it would be -- your argument would 12 be on the pleadings; right? 13 MR. MARKS: What's that, Your Honor? 14 THE COURT: Your statute argument would be on the 15 16 pleadings? MR. MARKS: Which statute argument? 17 THE COURT: That they filed after three years. 18 MR. MARKS: That would be -- that would not be a 19 Immunities Act --20 21 THE COURT: No, I know, but it would be a 12(b)(6) MR. MARKS: It would be, Your Honor, but there's a 22 lot of case law in this District that cautions sovereigns not 23 to make arguments outside the Immunities Act or, therefore, 2.4 they have to make all of their nonimmunity arguments --25

2.4

THE COURT: Well, you already told me six 1 2 arguments. MR. MARKS: No, I don't believe so, Your Honor. 3 THE COURT: Okay. Well, if I entered an order 4 saying I want you to brief 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) at the same 5 6 time, would that protect you? MR. MARKS: I think that would violate -- with all 7 due respect, Your Honor, I think that that issue has already 8 been decided against ordering that in the PIAD case, where the 9 district court ordered a sovereign, I'm trying to think which 10 one it was --11 THE COURT: Because I've argued a case here where I 12 argued 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) for Paraguay. 13 MR. MARKS: Your Honor may have chosen to do that. 14 THE COURT: Right. 15 16 MR. MARKS: That would have been Your Honor's choice. 17 THE COURT: Oh, I can't force you to do it. 18 MR. MARKS: That is the purpose. 19 THE COURT: Got it. Because I can't force you to 20 21 get to the merits before I decide jurisdiction. That would be our view. 2.2 MR. MARKS: THE COURT: Yeah. Okay. That makes more sense. 23 Okay. I got it. 2.4 25 You want to say anything else?

MR. MARKS: Me?
THE COURT: Yeah.
MR. MARKS: No, Your Honor.
THE COURT: On this stay issue, we're going to go back to the other issue soon.
MR. MARKS: Yes, sure, Your Honor. But our we complied belatedly with Your Honor's rule to have the pre-motion conference, and we're happy to talk about the motion that we would intend to file.
THE COURT: Yeah, I want to do
MR. MARKS: But on stay, of course, we do it's a nondispositive motion, we would intend to file it and Your Honor would decide how you choose to. And we do not object to staying the case until after Blasket is decided. One of the issues in Blasket there's multiple issues in Blasket but whether Your Honor gets to it or not, one of the issues in Blasket is whether merely signing the New York Convention constitutes waiver. I haven't practiced in this area for a long time, and it struck me as a very odd position, but nonetheless it's out there.
THE COURT: I don't think that's how they're going to win. I think they're going to win some other way, but I hear you.
MR. MARKS: So that's an issue then, if the Blasket court decides we know the Blasket court and again there

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

are three cases, but they're interested in it because they 1 asked the U.S. State Department to file an amicus. 2 THE COURT: No, I know. I was at that argument and 3 if I was a betting human being, I would bet that my former 4 client will be in our court again, but okay. 5 MR. MARKS: Well, we know you're betting from the 6 prior case because you were giving 80/20 odds on the motion. 7 THE COURT: Exactly. 8 All right. Come on up. I mean, he makes a lot of 9 good points about, you know, I -- look, do I think France 10 11 handled World War II well? No. Like the Maginot Line, we have this big line no one can cross it and Hitler just went 12 around it. No, I would not defer to France on military 13 strategy in World War II. But in terms of being the seat of 14 the arbitration, it's probably one of the most popular seats 15 16 in the world. And they have a very sophisticated legal system to address arbitration issues. I mean, we're not talking 17 about Timbuktu. And so why -- he makes a lot of good points, 18 it's unlikely if France annuls the award I'm going to say that 19 they got it wrong, so... 20 21 MR. HRANITZKY: Well, Your Honor, I quess what I find confusing or just don't understand about my counterpart's 22 position, is that, as I understand the sort of mandatory 23 sequence of taking of issues in this court, this court first 24 has to satisfy itself that it has subject matter jurisdiction before it can reach merits issues. And my understanding of the law in this circuit, in fact, in the United States, is that it's settled law that whereas here, the issue of whether the dispute was arbitrable was vested in the tribunal, which it was under the UNCITRAL rules. I don't think anybody can dispute that. And where the tribunal finds that it was seized of jurisdiction to hear the case, that issue can't be revisited for purposes of determining whether this court has subject matter jurisdiction.

MR. HRANITZKY: -- if it's a merits issue, right. But our -- to sum up, I guess where we would like to go with this, we'd just like to get past the issues that aren't really issues like subject matter jurisdiction. The tribunal has already determined that this dispute was arbitrable. Per se that means this case falls within Section 1605(a)(6). This Court has subject matter jurisdiction. So let's get on to the merits issues and the statute of limitations issue.

THE COURT: So let me get this straight. So what you would want is for me to decide the jurisdictional issues. And if by the time I do that France is still outstanding, then you're okay with staying the merits until France comes back.

MR. HRANITZKY: Well, Your Honor, I wouldn't say we're okay with that, I'd say let's take a look at where we are and what's happened since then. The additional point that I would make is that I don't believe that -- I'm sorry, I just lost my thought. At least on the issue of arbitrability, I don't believe that what happens in France can ultimately effect the merits disposition of whether the case was properly arbitrable, but I will confess that that's not entirely clear and that's a matter that it would be appropriate to brief. What we'd really like to avoid is having to go through two rounds of briefing where the issue of whether this court has subject matter jurisdiction is already decided by the tribunal when they found that the dispute was arbitrable.

THE COURT: I'm sorry, so what are the two rounds of briefing you're trying to avoid? I'm sorry I missed it. He's right. I can't make them brief 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) at the same time I would prefer that they did that, but I can't make them do that.

MR. HRANITZKY: I understand that, Your Honor. What we would like to do is get the subject matter jurisdiction issues out of the way.

THE COURT: Any reason we can't do that? Like if I just said let's get the 12(b)(1) decided and then I'll take up your stay application after that.

MR. MARKS: Your Honor, that's the whole issue that -- I'm sorry, Your Honor -- that's the whole issue for why the cases are staying. That's the one --

THE COURT: No, but he's right. France isn't going to tell me anything about the FSIA.

MR. MARKS: What France it's reasonably stated in CC/Devas, recently stated in all the Spain cases, that if France decides that there was no agreement to arbitrate, right, and France can do that. That's the whole purpose of the --

THE COURT: But then he is right that's exactly 7 what's at point in the Spain cases. Because in the Spain 8 cases the European court said there's no agreement to 9 arbitrate. And the very question posed by the Spain cases is 10 11 for the purposes of FSIA do we have to defer to that or even look at it or do we just have our own independent assessment? 12 And again, I have not talked to anyone, I don't know anything, 13 but just having listened to the argument, I'm guessing that 14 the Court -- I want to say this in every way, shape humanly 15 16 possible, I do not know what the appellate courts are going to do. No idea. Haven't talked to anyone. I'm just like 17 layperson Ana who heard the hearing. And I would just be 18 shocked if -- I would be surprised if the Court came back and 19 said that the English -- that the European court's 20 21 interpretation of whether or not there was an agreement to arbitrate binds or even influences our decision of whether or 22 not there was an agreement to arbitrate under the FSIA. 23

MR. MARKS: I don't know what the Court's going to do in Blasket because I wasn't at the arbitration. Excuse me,

I wasn't at the Court of Appeals. However, we don't disagree that there may be aspects of Blasket that may influence how this case is decided. And that is an issue, let's not forget Judge Leon, right, there were three cases that were consolidated --

THE COURT: Right. My star associate argued that case in front of Judge Leon, Ben Graham, he's phenomenal. Unfortunately, Judge Chutkan went the other way. Not unfortunately -- unfortunately, for my former client Judge Chutkan went the other way. As did my good friend Moxie, the Magistrate Judge, but you know.

MR. MARKS: And there was another judge in the this district that went the other way too, it's one of the cases that were consolidated with Blasket.

THE COURT: I can't remember.

MR. MARKS: I can't remember her name. But in any case, that's -- the issue in Blasket is -- the issue in Blasket is the -- is whether there was an agreement to arbitrate.

THE COURT: Well --

MR. MARKS: And we think that if the Courts in France say there was no agreement to -- there was no jurisdiction because there is no agreement to arbitrate, that the BIT is properly interpreted to mean that it doesn't apply to Crimea, we think then that's going to be something that

Case 1:23-cv-00764-ACR Document 36-5 Filed 05/29/24 Page 32 of 70

1	Your Honor or the U.S. courts would look at in determining
2	under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act whether there was
3	an agreement to arbitrate.
4	THE COURT: Well, then actually maybe
5	MR. MARKS: That's why you typically allow the
6	jurisdiction where the set-aside proceedings are pending to go
7	first. That was, again, the rationale in the other Spain
8	cases.
9	THE COURT: Well, Mr. Hranitzky
10	MR. HRANITZKY: May I?
11	MR. MARKS: Sure. Yes. I'm sorry.
12	THE COURT: Maybe you were right. Maybe the way to
13	do this is to stay the case until the Spain is decided. Or, I
14	mean, I'm happy to let you all brief it now, but based on what
15	he's just told me it does seem like I didn't think that
16	they were going I didn't think the Spain case was going to
17	matter, but now I actually might.
18	MR. HRANITZKY: Your Honor, I don't believe that the
19	Spain case is dispositive. We, again, we proposed that in the 20	interest of compromise to see if maybe we can take an issue
21	off of Your Honor's desk and we could move on to other issues
22	in the case. But Your Honor was correct, I mean, our
23	preference would be that there be no stay and that we move
24	forward.
25	But there's one point, I think this whole colloquy

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

has crystallized in my mind, there seems to be a fundamental 1 disagreement about what the law in the circuit is on a very 2 fundamental point. My understanding is that after Chevron. 3 THE COURT: Well, I wouldn't rely too heavily on 4 Chevron, because if I was a betting person I would also say 5 that's not going to be around after June, but go ahead. 6 MR. HRANITZKY: Well, it's around now. And after 7 Chevron, when the parties agree that the issue of 8 arbitrability is vested with the tribunal, the question of 9 whether the --10 THE COURT: Oh, you're talking about a different 11 Chevron. 12 MR. HRANITZKY: I may be talking about a different 13 Chevron. 14 THE COURT: You're talking about a different 15 16 Chevron, okay, I was like I don't understand how we got into administrative agency --17 MR. HRANITZKY: That's okay. Oh, no, I'm not 18 talking about Chevron deference. No, it's not the Justice 19 Gorsuch Chevron. This is Chevron v. Ecuador. 20 21 THE COURT: Yeah. Okay. The law in this circuit since 20 --MR. HRANITZKY: 2.2 THE COURT: That was a crazy case. Did any of you 23 litigate that case? That was insanity. 2.4 MR. HRANITZKY: I'm familiar with it. 25

THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead. I'm sorry. 1 MR. HRANITZKY: We didn't appear in the case. But 2 under that case, D.C. Circuit said when the parties agree that 3 the issue of arbitrability is to be decided by the tribunal, 4 which nobody can dispute under the UNCITRAL rules that's the 5 case. Then when the tribunal finds that the dispute is 6 arbitrable, there's no issue under Section 1605(a)(6), that is 7 clear law in this circuit. 8 THE COURT: Yeah, but if the BIT doesn't apply, then 9 there was no agreement to let the arbitrators decide. 10 MR. HRANITZKY: But then that's a merits issue. 11 What Chevron says is that that's a merits issue. It's not an 12 issue whether there's an exception to sovereign immunity. 13 It's not an issue that goes to whether this court is seized of 14 jurisdiction. It's a merits issue. 15 16 THE COURT: Okay. Can you --MR. HRANITZKY: I mean the other key case, if I may, 17 Your Honor, not to interrupt --18 THE COURT: No, go ahead. 19 MR. HRANITZKY: I think there are really two cases 20 21 that you could read that, at least from my perspective, put all of this into crystal clear perspective for the purposes of 2.2 whether there was an agreement to arbitrate or not. The first 23 is Chevron v. Ecuador. And then the second is the Supreme 2.4 Court decision in the Schein case. 25

THE COURT: In what case?

MR. HRANITZKY: In the Schein case, I have the cite here. It's Schein v. Archer and White Sales, 139 Supreme Court 524 and the pincite the 528.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HRANITZKY: That's a 2019 decision, I think it was a Justice Gorsuch decision. And what that case says is that when the tribunal decides that the dispute is arbitrable, the U.S. courts can't revisit that even when the finding of arbitrability was utterly groundless. That is squarely the holding of the case.

Now, these raise merits issues, I would submit that we expect that we will win on the merits as well. Right, but I'm sure that my colleague would disagree with that. All I'm suggesting is that there really isn't any issue whether this court has jurisdiction. Let's move on to the merits, rather than having to go through two rounds.

THE COURT: Well, they're not going to concede that there's jurisdiction, so we're going to have to brief jurisdiction. And I can't make them brief 12(b)(6) at the same time.

MR. HRANITZKY: Understood. I'm just suggesting --THE COURT: I would greatly prefer they did, but I can't make them do that.

MR. HRANITZKY: We would just like to get it started

now. 1 THE COURT: I hear vou. 2 The one other point I'd like to MR. HRANITZKY: 3 make, because we've been spending a lot of time talking about 4 the Spain cases, but there's a whole separate body of cases 5 that are much more apposite and those are the Russia cases. 6 And there are a number of them pending in this district. 7 THE COURT: Oh, yeah, what are the other courts --8 MR. HRANITZKY: None of them are stayed. 9 THE COURT: Have any of them been teed up to be 10 11 stayed? MR. HRANITZKY: There was a stay -- one of those 12 cases, the Hulley case, which I would submit if Your Honor 13 views stay rulings as being precedential at all. 14 THE COURT: I do not, but go ahead. 15 16 MR. HRANITZKY: I don't believe they are either, but perhaps they're instructive. And you know in the Hulley case 17 it was the only one of the Russia arbitrable award recognition 18 cases that was stayed. 19 THE COURT: Who was that? 20 The facts of that case was similar. 21 MR. HRANITZKY: There was a set-aside proceeding brought at the seat, in that 2.2 case The Netherlands. The Court of Appeal vacated the award, 23 just like what happened in this case. It went up to the 2.4 highest court, it's not called the Court of Cassation in The 25

Netherlands, it's called the Supreme Court, I think. But one way or the other, the Supreme Court reversed the appellate court, and the matter was remanded to the Court of Appeals.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. HRANITZKY: Russia asked to extend -- there was a stay in place they entered early on in the case at the time that the Court of Appeals vacated the award in the first instance. That stay remained in effect throughout the set-aside proceedings up to the point that the Court of -- the Supreme Court of the Netherlands vacated the decision of the Court of appeals, vacating the award. At that point Russia came back to -- or Judge Howell, Judge Howell, and asked her to extend the stay. And Judge Howell said no, enough is enough, this case has been stayed for a number of years. Many of these issues that you're litigating in the Dutch courts have already been resolved. I understand you when you say there are other issues --

THE COURT: What is that cite? Do you have that cite for me?

MR. HRANITZKY: That case is the last Howell case. Excuse me, Your Honor, I have it in this binder.

THE COURT: What office are you guys from? What city are you guys from?

MR. HRANITZKY: I was in New York until the pandemic and now I'm in Salt Lake City. Park City was a nice place to

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

2	THE COURT: Are you a skier?
3	MR. HRANITZKY: I'm sorry?
4	THE COURT: Are you a skier?
5	MR. HRANITZKY: Absolutely.
6	THE COURT: Were you able to ski during COVID?
7	MR. HRANITZKY: The first year the resort so the
8	lockdown happened at the very end of the 2020 ski season. So
9	there was no skiing in April. For the 2021 season, most of
10	the resorts allowed skiing if you wore a mask, which was a
11	little bit of a buzz kill, but
12	THE COURT: Well, I always wear the cover any way.
13	MR. HRANITZKY: Well, you had to wear a mask.
14	THE COURT: Over the cover?
15	MR. HRANITZKY: Yeah.
16	THE COURT: That's got to be hard to breathe.
17	MR. HRANITZKY: It wasn't great. But it wasn't a
18	great snow season anyway.
19	THE COURT: Where do you ski there?
20	MR. HRANITZKY: Well, I live right during the
21	pandemic I was right at Deer Valley, so I skied at Deer
22	Valley.
23	THE COURT: Awesome. All right.
24	MR. HRANITZKY: Now I live at Park City. But
25	anyway

THE COURT: Have you ever skied at Sun Valley in 1 Idaho? 2 MR. HRANITZKY: Just Once. 3 THE COURT: It's amazing. No one goes out there 4 because they think it's hard to get to, but it's the No. 1 ski 5 resort every year. 6 MR. HRANITZKY: There's some other well kept secrets 7 that I'm not going to disclose on a transcript. 8 THE COURT: All right. You can tell me after. 9 MR. HRANITZKY: The Hulley case. This is the most 10 recent of the Hulley cases and the cite is 2022 Westlaw 11 1102200. And I would submit that this case is as close to on 12 all fours as you can find. 13 One of the key distinctions between the Spain cases 14 and the Russia cases, many of the Courts in the Spain cases 15 16 stayed -- granted requests for stays because so many of the other Spain cases were stayed. And one of the considerations 17 that they took in -- had in mind --18 THE COURT: I drafted the brief --19 MR. HRANITZKY: I'm sure you did, Your Honor. 20 In 21 this case --THE COURT: I was an idiot. What did I know. 2.2 MR. HRANITZKY: In this case it's the opposite, in 23 this case none of the Russia cases are stayed. So the 2.4 concerns that the Courts had with allowing one plaintiff or 25

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

petitioner to get an unfair advantage over the others who were stayed, we have the converse here. If we're stayed while all of the other Russia cases are allowed to proceed and are not stayed, it unfairly prejudices us.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, what's clear to me is I'm going to need briefing on this. So you guys get together with a briefing schedule for a motion to stay. Then I want to talk -- but come on up because I want to talk to you about your jurisdictional arguments.

MR. MARKS: Sure. I just, Your Honor, when you read the Schein case, you'll see that it is not the way that it was described. That case went --

THE COURT: Shocking that I often get lawyers arguing the same language to me in wildly different ways. Don't worry, I look at the cases all myself.

MR. MARKS: The case never went to arbitration. The issue there was the district courts, whether it could order arbitration if it found that the argument was wholly groundless. And it went to the Court of Appeals. And then the Supreme Court said that you cannot challenge an arbitrable -- a finding of arbitrability even if it's wholly groundless.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MR. MARKS: That's what happened there.
On the Hulley case, the other two cases related to Ukraine which are in this district, Your Honor, the reason 1 it's a stay -- I'm not counsel in those -- but there's the 2 Stabil case and there's the Naftogaz case. The reason that a 3 stay wasn't sought, Your Honor, is because the set-aside 4 proceedings had concluded in those cases. 5 THE COURT: Okay. Well, that seems like a major 6 distinction. 7 MR. MARKS: That might be a distinction. 8 THE COURT: Okay. Well, you guys fight it out on 9 the papers. You guys come up with a briefing schedule. 10 Do not make my decide the briefing schedule. You guys figure it 11 out. Okay. 12 MR. MARKS: If I might, Your Honor, just -- there 13 was this compromise which was their idea, is Your Honor 14 intending to stay the case pending the resolution of 15 16 Blasket. THE COURT: I don't know. 17 MR. MARKS: You don't know. 18 THE COURT: I really need to see the briefing. 19 Okay. 20 MR. MARKS: 21 THE COURT: I will tell you that my inclination is to move my cases forward quickly. 22 MR. MARKS: Right. 23 THE COURT: I don't like the idea of staying this 24 case, but you've made some excellent points. You've earned 25 your keep today. So I want to see some briefing.

MR. MARKS: Fine. Why don't we get together with opposing counsel -- one of the things, by the way, Your Honor, is that I think it's great that we have these in-person things, because it gives you a chance to meet with opposing counsel that you don't otherwise see. So after now or shortly after we'll confer on the briefing schedule and we'll submit something. I'm sure we'll agree and we can submit something to Your Honor. And then Your Honor will decide the stay before we -- I'm sorry, you wanted to ask me something?

THE COURT: Yeah, I -- just give me sort of the elevator speech version of your -- let's say I don't grant the stay and I say you guys are going to sort of move forward with your jurisdictional briefing, what's the elevator speech version of your brief?

MR. MARKS: The elevator speech is that under the Sovereign Immunities Act, Your Honor has an independent duty to determine whether there's jurisdiction. Therefore, Your Honor has an independent duty to determine whether the Russian Federation made an offer to arbitrate this dispute with Oschadbank. And we have seven reasons in the original motion to dismiss why that's not the case.

And I'll just highlight a couple of them, if I might. The first argument that we made was the continuity argument -- Contemporanea argument, that when you go to interpret a treaty, you rely on the principles of interpreting contracts, right. And at the time that the BIT was signed, Crimea was not Russian territory. And, therefore, the BIT would not apply to investments that -- you could not make claims under the BIT for investments that were made in Crimea because it was not considered to be Russian territory under the BIT when it was signed.

THE COURT: It's a really fascinating geopolitical issue. Geopolitical issues come before Courts, it's probably one of the more interesting ones.

MR. MARKS: Well, this is your second one today, right?

The second issue, Your Honor, was the temporal issue that, again, that's not finally decided in France. The BIT says that it only applies to investments made after January 1st of 1992.

THE COURT: But that they start after 1992? Because I assume the investment was continuing -- I mean, there might be a damages cut-off point. But even if it began after 1992, wasn't the investment continuing after 1992?

MR. MARKS: They would not be able to recover under the BIT for the value of whatever was invested by Oschadbank before January 1st, 1992.

THE COURT: But I imagine the damages in the case involved money after 1992 as well, no?

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

MR. MARKS: They may be, Your Honor. But Your Honor wouldn't be able to recognize this award, because the award didn't differentiate the investment before January 1st, 1992, and that which was made after. Therefore, the tribunal --

THE COURT: But aren't they just going to argue, no, if we had jurisdiction for some of it the arbitration tribunal had jurisdiction. Now they may have gotten the damages wrong, but that's, you know, bad tribunal.

MR. MARKS: I don't think that they had jurisdiction to decide investments that were made before January 1st, 1992. They would have to go back and they would have to then properly arbitrate this based on whatever they claim the damages are.

THE COURT: So your argument is let's -- I just want to make sure I -- one of the reasons I have these conferences is so you guys know what I'm thinking when you brief things. So your argument is there was pre-1992 investments -- and let's just hypothetical, there are pre-1992 investments that were there in Crimea and then they continued and there was additional investments after 1992. And your view is the tribunal could not take jurisdiction -- because the tribunal didn't have jurisdiction over some of it, it didn't have jurisdiction over any of it. And he's going to come and tell me because the tribunal had jurisdiction over some of it, they had jurisdiction over all of it. Or maybe they didn't have it over all of it, but I can't do anything to touch the damages, 1 because if they had jurisdiction I have to defer to it. 2 Now, as you guys brief this, I just suggest that --3 I mean, it just seems like that's one of the issues you're 4 going to have. 5 MR. MARKS: Fair enough, Your Honor. And we will 6 look at it. I can tell you that the practice in what I'll 7 call the arbitrable award world that I know of, because this 8 exact same issue occurred in The Netherlands involving an 9 investment in Crimea, the Dutch court vacated the award and 10 11 remanded it back to the tribunal to reconsider. Your Honor --THE COURT: Was that under the New York Convention 12 or was that under The Netherlands law? 13 MR. MARKS: Well, I believe The Netherlands law, 14 similar to France, essentially, has -- incorporates the New 15 York Convention. 16 THE COURT: Okay. 17 I think they're -- I think they're 18 MR. MARKS: parallel. Similar to Section 2 of the Federal Arbitration 19 Act. The gloss, of course, which is important we have here is 20 21 the Sovereign Immunities Act is above that, because of the unique nature of this. So we'll look at that, Your Honor, 2.2 because I have to think about it, because I haven't thought 23 about it. 2.4 The third argument that we have is the territory, 25 that it would only -- the BIT would only apply to territory 1 that is -- which is agreed by the parties is the sovereign 2 territory, whichever country where the investment is made and 3 there's no agreement on that. 4 THE COURT: But what about his argument that, I 5 mean -- what's the response to his argument that I don't get 6 to decide whether the arbitration tribunal had jurisdiction, I 7 have to defer to what the tribunal said. 8 MR. MARKS: That's completely meritless. I mean, we 9 all --10 THE COURT: A lot of Supreme Court case law that 11 says it's not. 12 MR. MARKS: The Supreme Court case law -- and I'm 13 familiar with it too, and Schein isn't one of them. But the 14 Supreme Court case law says that would only be the case where 15 16 there's clear and unmistakable evidence that the parties exclusively -- bold, underlined, italics -- exclusively 17 delegated the decision on arbitrability to the tribunal. 18 And that's not what happened here. 19 THE COURT: Right. But once the tribunal makes the 20 21 decision that's what it did, I can't -- I mean, you have a 22 chicken/egg problem. But as I understand the Supreme Court, like when it's the chicken/egg problem, the tribunal wins. 23 MR. MARKS: No. There has to be exclusive 24 delegation, Your Honor. And that's why it's so important and 25

it will have to be briefed, and it wasn't mentioned here, but Your Honor might be familiar there's a doctrine called Competence-Competence, it's not that well known in the United States, but it's absolutely well known in Europe. And under the doctrine of Competence-Competence, all you're saying is, listen, we're going to let the tribunal look at it first, but that's without prejudice, either side to file a set-aside --

THE COURT: Yeah, but that's not the law in the U.S. It's just not. I mean, I've taught the doctrine. Literally, I can see the -- I have a PowerPoint on the doctrine in my class. That's not consistent necessarily or parallel exactly with U.S. law. It just isn't.

MR. MARKS: Your Honor, I believe that the U.S. law and we have -- we didn't brief this yet, right, because that would be an argument they would have to make in their response, but there's case --

THE COURT: I'm just alerting you to the issues.

MR. MARKS: I appreciate that, Your Honor. And we'll -- it's not something that we would, I think, address in our opening brief, because it's their argument that there was exclusive -- I think their argument has to be, Your Honor, that the delegation is exclusive. And that I have -- and that I think then you have to look at the particular case.

But let me just say this to Your Honor and I wasn't here to argue it, but this is all help -- I will say one thing, it's always helpful to know what a judge thinks, because then it helps us prepare what we're going to provide to the judge and then the judge will make the decision. Is that's -- to me it wouldn't seem to be the case, because if that was the case that the tribunal's decision on jurisdiction was final, how could you have all of these courts in the seats of arbitration entertaining set-aside applications.

THE COURT: Because they're not in the U.S. There are very few set asides of international tribunal decisions in the U.S.

MR. MARKS: Well, Your Honor, I don't know that this -- where this argument has been made and if it has been properly made, I know it wasn't properly made in Chevron, okay. Our dispute's not governed by U.S. law. Our dispute is governed by the law of the Bilateral Investment Treaty. And the choice of law is a very important issue. Your Honor might say, hey, if you have a dispute between a union and a member, you know, under the Labor Act, that we don't have Competence-Competence. And that's a dispute that's going to be governed by U.S. law. But if we're here enforcing an award under an international treaty and the treaty provides that it's governed by international law --

THE COURT: What international law is it governed by? Is it -- I mean, it's the seat of the arbitration, but that's not going to be the merits law. So what's the law on the BIT? 1 MR. MARKS: No. You would look to international 2 law. And one of the things you do, and this is in the 3 Professor Nouvel report, Your Honor, is that you look to 4 either decisions under the BIT itself or under, I believe, 5 it's Vienna Law, VCLT Vienna Convention on the Law of 6 Treaties. 7 THE COURT: The BIT doesn't have a choice of law 8 provision? 9 MR. MARKS: International law. 10 THE COURT: It just says international law, because 11 there's no thing as international law. 12 MR. MARKS: Well no, I think when you look --13 there's people here in D.C., I think, who would disagree with 14 that. But, Your Honor, I think when you're looking and 15 16 interpreting --THE COURT: I should say, of course, there's 17 international law, I litigated international law. What I mean 18 is there's no -- I can't go to like Westlaw international law, 19 you know, as opposed to D.C. Circuit and then, you know, type 20 21 something in and then I have these things. It's a little bit more -- I just I have never seen a choice of law that just 22 says international law. 23 MR. MARKS: If -- it's in the ECT, which was the 24 Spain case. 25

П

1	THE COURT: Uh-huh.
2	MR. MARKS: You look at principles of international
3	law, I know for sure because I recently looked at that
4	provision there. I would be certain something similar would
5	be in this BIT. I have it with me. But you've heard there's
6	a it's the international equivalent of Lexus, it's called
7	Jus Mundi.
8	THE COURT: Right, but that's
9	MR. MARKS: Just one second. So what you look at 10	you look at sources of international law. And one of the 11	sources of international law are decisions under either this
12	BIT or similar BITs.
13	THE COURT: No, I understand.
14	MR. MARKS: And you look to see the precedent that's
15	built by the tribunals. You look at the precedent of
16	set-aside decisions.
17	THE COURT: Well, it's this was actually one of 18	the Judge Pan's questions during the hearing. And it is 19	people who practice in the area understand the precedence of
20	formal arbitrable tribunals, but American lawyers and judges
21	don't. I mean, it's not precedent in the way that we consider
22	precedent.
23	MR. MARKS: It's a source of it's
24	THE COURT: It's a source of information. It's like
25	a district court decision, basically.

1	MR. MARKS: It's but if when you have
2	tribunals even in this case, of course, you know, we didn't
3	participate, but there were, you know, extended decision by
4	the tribunal, the tribunal looks to other decisions by
5	tribunals, it looks to commentaries. It looks to
6	THE COURT: No, I know.
7	MR. MARKS: It doesn't decide it by flipping a coin.
8	It looks to what it would consider to be reliable sources that
9	could guide it in making a decision.
10	THE COURT: No, I hear you. I understand. All
11	right. Let me ask you this, I am going to obviously well,
12	first of all, for these pre-motion conferences it's never
13	to I'm always going to let someone file if they want the 14	file. I do these because, as you saw earlier, sometimes we
15	can get rid of things without filings. It's obviously not
16	going to happen here. So you guys decide the motion to stay.
17	If I take it since you've already since basically your
18	motion to dismiss is done, it wouldn't be too much work for
19	you all to refile the motion; right?
20	MR. MARKS: I want to take into consideration what
21	Your Honor said today.
22	THE COURT: Yeah, no, I'll let you make changes, but
23	we're not talking you're starting from scratch on a motion to
24	dismiss.
25	MR. MARKS: No, I wouldn't no I wouldn't, we know

Christine T. Asif, RPR, FCRR, Federal Official Court Reporter

Case 1:23-cv-00764-ACR Document 36-5 Filed 05/29/24 Page 52 of 70

that there's now changes -- we deleted the service argument as Your Honor knows, we filed the notice on that, because the U.S. Department of State served the Russian Federation. So we have a couple more pages. So --

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MR. MARKS: But the answer is we would be able to file it without a tremendous amount of additional work.

THE COURT: Okay. So let me ask you a question. Come on up. Obviously, I'm going to let them file their motion to stay. Now, we can proceed one of two ways and I'm going to let you -- dealer's choice, choose your own adventure.

MR. HRANITZKY: I think I know what Your Honor's going to ask. Our preference would be that the briefing happen concurrent.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. So that's what I'm going to order. You guys come up with a briefing for a motion to stay. And then you come up with a separate briefing for the motion to dismiss on -- for the 12(b)(1) motion. If I stay I won't decide the 12(b)(1). If I don't stay, I will decide the 12(b)(1). Okay. And then we might just have a joint hearing on the two. I know that's not your ideal, but you're doing better than you were coming in.

MR. MARKS: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. So you guys work out a

1	schedule. I'll leave you all to work out whatever you want to
2	work out. Just don't make me decide it. And then after you
3	figure out what your final date is for the replies, email
4	Chashawn to set up an argument. I would give it I would
5	make it at least a four-hour argument. And for two to three
6	weeks after the briefing is finalized, okay.
7	MR. HRANITZKY: Your Honor, I have one
8	administrative question.
9	THE COURT: Sure. Come on up.
10	MR. HRANITZKY: Because most of my colleagues on
11	this team are located in Paris and London.
12	(Discussion off the record.)
13	MR. HRANITZKY: That's actually the point I was 14	trying to address. Nearly all of my colleagues other than 15	Ms. O'Gorman and Ms. Zhang are located in London and Paris.
16	THE COURT: Lucky them. Let's have the hearing in
17	London. Quinn can pay. You guys are rich.
18	(Laughter.)
19	MR. HRANITZKY: But they can't dial a toll free
20	number in the United States from abroad.
21	THE COURT: Oh, we can use Zoom, no?
22	MR. HRANITZKY: So we had asked if it was possible,
23	in addition to the toll free number for these dial-ins if
24	there would be a if there could be circulated a nontoll
25	free

Case 1:23-cv-00764-ACR Document 36-5 Filed 05/29/24 Page 54 of 70

THE COURT: Well, we can do it by zoom, no? For the 1 people abroad, not for you all. 2 THE CLERK: For parties, yes. 3 THE COURT: They're members of your team; right? 4 MR. HRANITZKY: Yes. 5 THE COURT: Okay. 6 MR. HRANITZKY: And I believe Mr. Marks may have the 7 same issue, because he has a client --8 THE COURT: I apologize. I didn't realize that was 9 an issue for today or we would have fixed it for today. 10 MR. HRANITZKY: We figured it out. But it would 11 be -- ideally if there was a way they could participate 12 directly. My London and Paris colleagues have had to 13 participate by relay. One of my Salt Lake associates had to 14 conference them from the toll free number. 15 16 THE COURT: Okay. For the people in Paris, if you will for me tonight somebody, please have a banana Nutella 17 crepe for me, that would be awesome. Think of me while you do 18 that. For the people in London, don't eat London food for me 19 tonight. Just work with Chashawn. We'll do whatever you all 20 need to do. 21 Thank you. MR. HRANITZKY: 2.2 THE COURT: Did you have anything else? 23 MR. MARKS: No, just thank you. 24 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. 25
