1. in accordance with its obligations under the ICSID Convention recognize the Award as final and binding and will abide by and comply with the terms of the Award;
2. not subject payments to any enforcement proceedings or to the scrutiny of Tanzanian courts; and
3. unconditionally and irrevocably pay the full amount of the Award (including interest) to the Claimants within forty-five (45) days following the notification by the ICSID Secretariat of the Committee's Decision on annulment such that the Claimants will be fully compensated, including interest, and will not need to engage in any action to recognize, enforce, or execute the Award under Article 54 of the ICSID Convention in any ICSID Contracting State.

Executive Chairman, Bronwyn Barnes commented:

"This is a tremendous outcome for the Claimants that brings us a considerable step closer to recovering the full amount owed as outlined in the Award which now stands at more than US$118M.

The undertaking provided by the Tanzanian Attorney General has been accepted by ICSID as meeting the requirements of the ad hoc Committee in their decision to not lift the stay on enforcement. This means that if Tanzania's request for annulment is not granted, then Tanzania will pay the full amount of the Award, including interest – currently US$118M – to the Claimants within 45 days of the decision being handed down. Indiana looks forward to providing further updates as this matter progresses in the New Year."

Indiana also notes the recent announcement that Tanzania has secured more than US$1 billion in funding from the World Bank to support various projects in Tanzania:

Background to Annulment Request

A review of documents lodged by Tanzania, in the view of the Claimants' legal representatives, do not demonstrate that Tanzania will be able to meet the requirements to justify annulment of the Award. The specific and narrow grounds that may, in exceptional circumstances, justify annulment are articulated in ICSID Convention Article 52(1), specifically:

- a. that the Tribunal was not properly constituted;
- b. that the Tribunal has manifestly exceeded its powers;
- c. that there was corruption on the part of a member of the Tribunal;
- d. that there has been a serious departure from a fundamental rule of procedure; or
- e. that the award has failed to state the reasons on which it is based.

In deciding to continue the stay of enforcement of the Award, the Committee decided not to take into consideration Tanzania's assertion that it is "aggrieved and dissatisfied" with the Award, and noted that an alleged grievance and dissatisfaction with the Award would not qualify as criterion for any of the grounds for annulment as specified under Article 52(1) of the ICSID Convention.
